

A form of transparency

Couple the tangible and the intangible into a mongrel fusion.

At the root of our history, resilience—best understood as the interplay between meaning and extinction through decades of deadlock and compromise—

shaping finished and unfinished change into a masterpiece of flow across the earth and the sea and the combined works of nature and men.

JC Sulzenko

writing as A. Garnett Weiss

Found poem sources: single words and phrases are drawn unaltered from two presentations written by Gianluigi Mastandrea Bonaviri, and by Luter Atagher at the Dean Maxwell and Isle Cohen Seminar in International Law, held in conjunction with the 2022 McGill Graduate Law Conference on (Legal) Adaptation.

DOI : 10.26443/glsars.v2i1.250